WE NOMINATE

Six eminent Princetonians, all in their late 60's and each a specialist in an area of learning who next month — with the conclusion of Princeton University's 215th year — will be retiring from the University upon completing a cumulative total of 181 years of active duty. Joining the ranks of professors emeriti, effective June 30th, will be Maurice Edgar Coindreau, Frederick Sherwood Dunn, Frank Ahern Heacock, Dana Gardner Munro, Henry Lyttleton Savage and John Fairfield Sly whose contributions to the interrelated worlds of knowledge and affairs range from prize-winning volumes to distinguished service in government posts or as members of specially created study "task forces".

The French-born Coindreau, retiring after 38 years, is internationally recognized as a leading interpreter of the contemporary literature of this country, France and Spain. Credited by Jean-Paul Sartre several years ago with originating strong American influences in French literature, this 68-year old scholar was inducted into the French Legion of Honor in 1955 for his pioneering efforts in interpreting French culture to the United States and American culture to France. Since first introducing John Dos Passos and William Faulkner to the French reading public, he has translated dozens of American works, including novels by Ernest Hemingway, Truman Capote, John Steinbeck, Erskine Caldwell, William Goyen and Flannery O'Connor.

Sharing "seniority honors" with Coindreau are Heacock and Savage, both of whom joined the Princeton Faculty in 1923, the spring Lord Cecil and Andrew Mellon received Princeton honorary degrees. The former, chairman of the Department of Graphics and Engineering Drawing throughout his tenure, has been a licensed New Jersey engineer since 1931 and in World War II directed training programs for nearly 3,000 employees in vital war industries. Savage, long active in the First Presbyterian Church, has combined researches in 14th Century English Literature with supervising the maintenance of Princeton's historical records and documents, first as Archivist in the University Library and recently as "Keeper of Princetoniana."iana."

Where Sly, director of Princeton Surveys since 1935 and National Chairman of the Y.M.C.A.'s Youth Government Program for two decades, has won renown in the broad field of state and local government, Dunn has roamed the expanses of international law and diplomacy for 40 years. Formerly executive secretary of the Walter H. Page School at Johns Hopkins, and from 1935 until 1951 Professor of International Relations at Yale, Dunn was called to Princeton as Milbank Professor of International Law and Practice in 1951.

The son of a medievalist, a career diplomat in Latin America before he moved to Princeton in 1930, and for 19 years director of the Woodrow Wilson School of Public Affairs, Munro in 1959 was one of the six members of the committee appointed by President Eisenhower to consider current and long-range problems in the United States' increasingly tumultuous relations with Latin America. Over the years, through his assignments in a half-dozen different Latin American Countries, extensive travels and writings, Munro became one of the best-known North Americans in South America — and also one of the first scholars to sense the importance of promoting wider understanding of Inter-American relations in the United States.

For their achievements in their chosen areas of concentration; for representing a cross-section of the interests which have contributed so much to the ongoing development of Princeton; for looking to the years ahead with all of the enthusiasm traditionally associated with the "younger generation"; these are TOWN TOPICS' nominees for

SCHOOL VS. HOMES

Conflict Continues. The question of whether or not to permit construction of a private school in a residential area is one that arouses considerable conflict, even in as education-minded a community as Princeton. This was evident at last Thursday's meeting of the Township Zoning Board, when more than 125 residents turned out for the second hearing on the application of the Religious of the Sacred Heart for permission to build a school on the Great Road.

About half of those present were residents opposed to construction of the school, while the other half was composed of Princeton sponsors. After two and a half hours of discussion and argument, highlighted by occasional outhursts from the audience and several calls to order from acting chairman Russell Van Cleve, the hearing was held over until next Thursday, June 1, at 7:30 p.m.

The application of the Sacred Heart, a Catholic order, was first heard at the April meeting of the Zoning Board, and was repeated last week at the request of J. Seymour Montgomery, attorney representing 10 residents of the North Road, Pretty Brook Road and the Great Road. Mr. Montgomery had protested in April that he had not known of the hearing in advance because the notice was printed in a Trenton paper rather then one in Princeton, and said that he had not had time to confe with his clients or to obtain a court stenographer.

A stenographer was present at last week's hearing, and Mr. Montgomery was joined in his opposition to the new school by Samuel D. Lennox, Trenton attorney representing three additional residents of Pretty Brook Road and the Great Road, plus seven others from Mountain Avenue, Drakes Corner Road, Province Line Road, Mercer Road and the Lawrenceville Road.

Property of Lady Monck. The land on which the Sacred Heart wishes to build belongs to Lady Catherine M. Monck of New York City, and is located on the western side of the Great Road, almost opposite the site of the new Princeton Day Schools (Miss Fine's and Princeton Country Day). The Sacred Heart proposes to occupy 50 acres of the 128-acre Monck tract, with the balance of the acreage remaining residential.

Lady Monck was represented at the hearing by Hugh D. Wise, Jr., while Albridge C. Smith, 3rd, represented the Religious of the Sacred Heart. Mr. Smith announced at the beginning that he planned to present the Sacred Heart case in full, in order to have it on the record, despite the fact that it had been presented at the previous hearing.

During the two hours of the hearing, however, Mr. Smith was able to present only two witnesses, Dr. Marston Morse of 40 Battle Road and C. Rassel O'Brien of Harlingen, chairman of the Sacred Heart advisory committee, which is composed of 95 residents of the Princeton area.

Dr. Morse gave a brief history of the Religious of the Sacred Heart, explaining that it was founded in France in 1820 and now operates 30 educational institutions in the United States in addition to more then 100 others abroad. He said that the Sacred Heart order wanted to build a school in Princeton because "Princeton is a great educational center," and added that the proposed school would "supplement not compete with the present Princeton Schools."

Need Cited. Mr. O'Brien described the proposed Sacred Heart school, which he said would be a non-sectarian country day school with a maximum enrollment of 250-300 in classes from kindergarten through high school, and stated that "members of the Princeton community have long felt the need for this type of school."

He then reported that the local sponsors committee had made a survey of the estimated prospective students and found a total of 150. Of these, Mr. O'Brien said, 70 were from Princeton Township and 26 from Princeton Borough, with the others distributed as follows: Lawrenceville, 10; Kingston, 4; Montgomry Township, 9; Plainsboro and Cranbury, 4; Pennington, 8, and Trenton, 19.

Both Dr. Morse and Mr. O'Brien were subjected to intensive cross-examination by Mr. Montgomery and Mr. Lennox. Mr. Montgomery attempted to discredit much of Dr. Morse's testimony on the ground that the information he elited was not gained through "direct and personal knowledge." He attacked Mr. O'Brien's list of estimated prospective students as "too vague" and asked that Mr. O'Brien produce at the next hearing a detailed record showin exactly what schools these students are now attending. And in a preview of what Promises to be a stormy session next week, Mr. Lennox brought up the problems of sewers and increased traffic just as the adjournment was announced.

PURCELL RESIGNS

To Accept New Post. Dr. Purcell, superintendent of Township Schools since 1950 and a member of the school system since 1936, has resigned to accept the post of superintendent of schools in Summit, N.J.

In his letter of resignation read to the Township Board of Education Thursday, Dr. Purcell said:

"It is with mixed feeling that I take this step. I have accepted a position . . . whic seems to me to he an opportunity which I should gras It offers an exciting challenge professionally because Summit system is a comple kindergarten through grade organization . . . My five years in Princeton Township hav been so rewarding that th thought of leaving rohs th new position of some of its a tractive qualities."

In reply, Mrs. Jess Epstein president of the Board, expressed the board's "deep" regret" in losing "the imaginative and creative leadership Dr. Purcell has given to our schools. The Board assures the community that we offered every inducement in our power to make Dr. Purcell's decision as difficult as possible. Obviously, however, one thing we could not offer him was the opportunity for educational planning in a complete kindergarten through 12th grade school system."

Mrs. Epstein said that, although the final decision was reached only a few days before the Board meeting, the Board has already begun work on the problem of finding a replacement for Dr. Purcell.

TEACHERS VOTE "NO"

On Merit Salary Plan. School teachers in Princeton Township have voted against a merit salary plan proposed to them by the Township Board of Education. The plan was rejected, 44 to 41. It had been worked out by the Merit Committee of the "teachers" association and approved in principle by the Board of Education.

Merit salary plans are, generally, frowned upon by teachers' professional organizations, and the Township Board is encouraged by the closeness of the recent vote. In view of the closeness of the decision, the Board hopes that further studies will be made by both teachers and the Board.

Merit plans can be imposed by boards of education without the approval of teachers' association and Princeton Township is one of the few municipalities in which the teachers have been asked for their endorsement or rejection.

We heard a fire chief impressing upon his audience that it is what you do in the first minutes of the beginning of a fire that counts. He said, "In fire fighting, you win or lose in the first few minutes."

That's why everyone must make way for the fire department when you hear them coming down the street . . . The minute they save in getting to a fire quickly may save human lives and tragedy, as well as property.

But in trying to think of other circumstances wherein haste does not make waste, we were hard put to come up with any ideas. If you will try to think of any other activity in our daily living where urgent hurrying will do more good than harm, you'll know what we mean.

SYCAMORE TAX TABLED

For Engineer's Report. The Township assessor's report assigning assesments to property owners on Sycamore Road for the improvement of that street was tabled by Township Committee Monday night. The action followed a two - and - one - half hour session in which three property owners protested the "benefit criterion of assessment and told Committee that properties had been damaged by flooding resulting from improper construction of the road.

According to E. E. Loebner, 100 Sycamore, and Mrs. Florence W. Seder, 178 Cedar Lane, the road stands "like a dam" some two and one-half feet above their properties. Mr. Loebner said that damage to his property was at least equal to his assessment.

Alfred L. Test, head of the Princeton University real estate office, submitted a detailed letter to Committee outlining the University's objections to its assessment. He protested that the University's paying was 59.5 per cent of the total cost although it had only 42.2 per cent of the total frontage.

Stuart Robson, Township assessor, explained that when assessors reduced the levy for some property owners because they lived on corners, for example, the amount which they were not assessed remaind in the total cost to be divided among other property owners so that percentages of amount and foot frontage would never be exactly matched.

Mr. Test also challenged the cost of the road and said the Township paid too much for its construction. (The winning bid was $28,809 but a $4,520 supplemental ordinance was required to complete the cost.)

He suggested that "governmental error" had been responsible for the unexpected cost, and Township Attorney Gordon Griffin and members of Committee questioned Mr. Test closely on his use of this term. The University representative said that, in his opinion, it was employees of the Township who erred in the construction of the road and not Township committee.

"Committee is the responsible body," stated Mr. Marvel.

Committeeman Maurice F. Healy, jr. suggested a complete review of the Sycamore Road assessment situation, including the questions of drainage, road construction and any errors in engineering judgment, and told Mr. Test he felt that the phrase "governmental error" in his letter had been "ill - advised and ill - tempered.

Mr. Test then said that he would prepare for Committee a new letter, containing the facts upon which the University bases its case, but re - phrased in certain parts. Committee agreed to return the old letter and accept the new when it was ready. Mr. Test asked committee to strike from the record all discussions of the controversial letter, but Committee declined to do so.

News Of The THEATRES

THE PLAYHOUSE

One-Eyed Jacks (May 24-30), or "Stanley Kowalski Goes West," is a big, roaring, suspenseful Western starring, and directed by Marlon Brando. The picture, in VistaVision and color, is said to have taken years to film, and the advance publicity told of the unorthodox Actors Studio procedures Brando employed on the set. Nonetheless, what appears on the screen is not a daring, avant-garde work of art, but only a good Western.

The film's most unique feature, of course, is Brando himself. As usual, he is magnetic, intense, powerful; also as usual, there is the continual suspicion he is just waiting for an opportunity to push the dishes off the table and yell "Stella!" For Brando's acting career has been one of great disappointments of the last decade, and there is something a bit tawdry about his inability to transcend the mannerisms which by now are little more than tricks.

"One-Eyed Jacks" is a story of revenge, and Brando's efforts to get back at Karl Malden, a former partner-in-crime and now a California sheriff, are frighteningly vivid. The supporting cast (which includes Pina Pellicer, Katy Jurado and someone called Ben Johnson) is excellent; Brando's direction shows aptitude and imagination.

Return to Peyton Place (May 31-June 6) is more sensational, sentimental junk from the apparently bottomless heap of Jerry Wald. Jose Ferrer directed a cast which includes Carol Lynley, Jeff Chandler, Eleanor Parker and Tuesday Weld. Designed to capitalize on Wald's earlier success with "Peyton Place," the new film maintains the artistic level of its Jerry-built predecessor.

It concerns the further misadventures of the lachrymose and sex-obsessed denizens of Grace Metalious' never-never land. There is some topical interest in Miss Metalious' implausible handling of the effects on the town and on young Allison MacKenzie (Miss Lynley) after Allison publishes a fleshy novel suspiciously like "Peyton Place." The film is in CinemaScope and color.

THE GARDEN

Mein Kampf (May 23-27) is a documentary of the 15-year rise and fall of the Thousand-Year Reich. It is sensational, but it is probably impossible to talk about the aberration of MOTHER LOVES ME: Dean Stockwell and Heather Sears are the Midlands sweethearts in the screen adaptation of D. H. Lawrence's "Sons and Lovers," which will be shown at the Garden on Monday.

Nazi Germany without being sensational.

The film includes some footage taken by the Nazis' own cameramen and never before shown publicly. There are a number of effectively presented stills at the beginning, after which the film explores the horrors of the concentration camps. Speeches by the Nazi leaders, translated in subtitles, are inter-spliced.

Sons and Lovers (May 29), made last year, is an intelligent and affectionate rendering of D. H. Lawerence's classic novel. In the transition to the screen several changes have been made—notably the expansion of the part of Miriam Lievers' mother and a key modification in the death of Mrs. Morel. Hence the movie is decidedly different from the book, but in its own way it is a worthwhile exploration of the themes that occupied Lawrence's thought.

Dean Stockwell is woodenly disappointing as Paul Morel, the young man torn between his dependence on his mother and his desire for normal relationships outside the family. But the rest of the cast is excellent, particularly Trevor Howard as Paul's weak, bewildered father and Mary Ure as the passionate Clara Dawes. Jack Cardiff's direction is excellent throughout, and approaches genius in the final scenes when Miriam (Heather Sears) begins physically to resemble her own frustrated mother while talking in the possessive phrases of Mrs. Morel. Recommended.

Breathless (May 30-June 3) is one of the vaguest of the French "Nouvelle Vague" films. It is also one of the most engrossing, in its formless, frentic way.

The action is compressed into a little more than one day, and hinges around a sensitively presented encounter between Jean-Paul Belmondo, a young theif with a Humphry Bogart complex, and Jean Seberg, an American student in Paris who is atteptin to break into journalism with the Paris Herald Tribune.

The haphazardness of the film is clearly a comment on the madness of the modern world, and it is often effective and exciting. There are, however, times when the technique seems amateurish and when the viewer may be forgiven a bit of annoyance at the film's presumptuous obscurity. In French with English titles. Recommended.

GOLD OR SILVER

For the Bride. Pack the spinach souffle into a 22-karat gold 3-quart casserole. That's Princeton Gourmet's suggestion for splendor.

It is also their suggestion for a bridal gift. Gold dish, not the spinach. Costs $11.95.

Trays in gold leaf are designed with red strawberries, green-gage plums or red apples and the trays themselves come in oblong or French-curve shapes. Oblong teak trays are matte black Formica on one side and a color (blue, red, white) on the other, so that you can reverse them. Three sizes.

If you can bear to cover up this memorable table top, put your trays on a 20 by 30 inch coffee table whose top is a Coast - and - Geodetic Survey map. Pick you bay, lake or inlet and Gourmet will order for you a table with the chart laminated into the top.

You get only a portion of a C. and G. S. chart, of course, because of the dimensions of the table, but you get enough to make that special part of the world—well, is "immortal" the word we want? The laminated surface is like glass and impervious to everything, even summer guests. $49.60.

The Italians contribute, not a chart of the Bay of Naples, but a four-piece silver plated coffee service (tray, coffee, sugar, cream) designed ith the smoothness of a mirror and the general shape of a truncated cone. Handles are polished hardwood, attached at right angles to the vessels. Price, also attached at a right angle, is $49.95 for the set.

Other plated silver pieces, all non-tarnish, might include three sections of ribbed glass nested in a circle of silver ($18.50), the charming little jam jar or the cheese server, both of which combine glass and non-tarnish silver in an agreeable manner. You may prefer the English cordial set, consisting of four little cordials for $8.50.

Our favorite $10.95 wedding present is the white marble square, set like a picture in a deeply-troughed frame of American black walnut. Put cheese on the picture and crackers on the frame, take the picture out and wash it when you're through. A smaller size is $7.95.

Orrefors crystal comes in a pitcher (pint and a half) with thumbprint design and a matching decanter with the thumbs streaking down from the narrow neck.

You could put buckets of ice into a charred brown bucket banded with strips of shining brass and topped by a solid brass top. It's insulated. Costs $27.50 for a four-gallon size and $24.95 for a two-gallon size. See how to be economical?

Gourmet has, not for the bride necessarily, but certainly for a long-time homemaker, a sinuous linkage of minute flower holders, each no larger than half an inch in diameter. Twenty inches of them are fastened together, but will come apart so that the snake can be used all at once for a standard bouquet, or in pieces for miniature arrangements. Costs $3.50.

. . . AND A WADDLING DUCK

Or Toddlers' Clothes. Women who appreciate fine handwork will be impressed by the minute detailing on a collection of little boys' creepers and suits now at The Little Clothes Line on the Square.

A two-inch felt elephant with separate trunk, a teddy-bear with blanket stitch chin, a felt poodle whose poodle clip is fuzzy yarn, a waddling duck with yellow embroidery entwined in his web feet — all these enchanting appliqued animals adorn the chests of the toddlers' suits. Each suit is different, both in animal and in color.

A yellow duckling on a yellow boucle suit or a white teddy on a pale blue orlon—the variety is infinite and the workmanship worth a stop at the store aven if your youngest child is 18. There's a particularly delightful sailor suit with navy blue pants and signal flags at the white top. And another suit with a little embroidered train that has baby-button wheels.

Swimmers will enjoy keeping all three of their years warm in terry-lined gingham shorts and gingham lined terry jackets. Sewed up for the small in pleasing shades of yellow and pink. There is also a turtle with a calico shell and a pair of aggressive lilac terry shorts. And a hooded jacket with a rabbit's face behind the hood.

Teaski for Twoski

Across the room from the little 90-cent half-cup teapot from Japan, Princeton Gourment has a splendid, hundred-dollar, Ivan - knows - how-many-cups samover from Russia, resplendent in shining nickel-plate and big as all Siberia.

This samovar—and we're not joking: it reatry comes from the U.S.S.R.—stands about two feet tall with ivory-like plastic knobs at the handles and the top, and a gleaming surface that must be nickel, over its solid brass form.

A samovar, for those of you who have never been east of Paris, is a Russian tea-maker with a hollow chimney in the middle to hold the hot charcoal coals. Gourmet suggests that you fill this with ice and use the samovar as a cooler for appropriate beverages. It can also be used as a conversation piece: how many people do you know with $100 samovars?

The Clothes Line is happiest about the shades in a new collection of denim play clothes. Coral, pale willow grey-green, rose pinks — the colors, appearing as they do in denim, will surprise you. Styles are sober pinafores, without ruffles or flourishes. We liked the gingham flower with wilted leaf on a size 6 pinafore in pale coral.

Boys' denim shorts in these same unusual colors are $1.95 each for styles that incorporate bugs to frighten little girls and clowns to make them laugh.

MEA CULPA: When it comes to getting a parking ticket, Harry Kerr (left) and James Wheeler both feel they have no one to blame but themselves. For those who get mad at the policeman or modern-day civilization, see below.

Question of the Week

Question: When you get a parking ticket, are you mad at (1) yourself, (2) the policeman, or (3) modern-day civilization?

Where asked: Palmer Square

William Lane, Princeton Theological Seminary, instructor: I guess at myself for the folly of trying to get away with it and trying to cut the rules a little bit.

Miss Barbara Dilley, 86 Stockton Street, student of the dance: I guess I'm annoyed at modern-day civilization because they are there and just as annoyed that I forgot they are there.

Harry H. Kerr, 178 Moore Street, office manager: Generally, I'm mad at myself. I feel it's just negligence on my part if I get a ticket. The police are just doing their job—that's what they get paid for.

James Wheeler, 145 Valley Road, car salesman: I don't think I get mad at anybody. I'm more or less angry with myself for staying overtime. It's one of the laws of the town and I think everybody should respect the law.

Gus Hyter, 161 Leigh Avenue, bank messenger: At the spur of the moment, I'm mad at the policeman who gave it to me, but after consideration I feel that he was only doing his job.

Mrs. Samuel Shellabarger, 107 Library Place, homemaker: I get mad at the policeman because very often I think they are unfair. I was double parked once just for a second, not blocking any traffic at all and one of them gave me a ticket. I think they should look after the speeders rather than the people who just park overtime for a minute. We are horrified at the terrific speeding on Stockton Street. It is terribly dangerous, especially at the intersection of Library Place.

Mrs. Arthur Jarvis, 21 Wilson Road, homemaker: Most of the time myself, because I know I have a certain amount of time and I think it is silly to be cross about it if I overstay it. If you live in a city you have to have certain laws to protect yourself, so I don't see where you can have any growl about modern-day civilization.

Raymond Lowrie, 100 Bayard Lane, bartender at Nassau Inn: Myself. It's my own fault to get one.

Mrs. Gordon Dey, Dey Road, Cranbury, housewife: I've gotten enough of them to know. At times, I've been mad at the policeman because I feel he has waited for it to go in the red. I think the majority of the times it is just plain forgetfulness on my part, though. I've never gotten a parking ticket anywhere but in Princeton. You have to be so careful here in town because the free parking zones are so far away from the shopping district.

Daniel Cahill, 201 Moore Street, package designer: I believe it's my own fault. But what I do think is they should provide more free parking space supported by the businessmen of the community. If you want to shop in the center of town you have to park blocks away. Also they should have more time on their meters. Thirty minutes isn't long enough.

Mrs. Robert H. Price, Franklin Park, secretary, Gearhart Lease-A-Car: Your modern-day civilization. I think the business people of Nassau Street should get together and work out some kind of arrangement whereby they would pay into a fund that would enable our customers to park on Nassau Street free of charge. I'd be willing to contribute a couple of dollars every week and I'm sure most of the other merchants on Nassau Street would, too. We are losing a lot of customers who would rather park free and without any fuss at the shipping center. This town has to do something about downtown parking.

Norlyn Isaler, Westminster Choir College, student: I am usually mad at myself because it is usually my own fault—but I hate to admit it.

William Waldron, Berkeley Avenue, Trenton, engineer: Myself, because I know I am either parked illegally, or I didn't put money in the meter, and I know that is wrong and I can't blame anybody but myself.

By Radcliffe Club The Radcliffe Club of Princeton has awarded its annual scholarship to Miss Sandra Burns of 710 Riverside Avenue, Trenton, it was announced by Mrs. Parker Hayden of 54 Rollingmead, the club's scholarship chairman.

The scholarship is given each year to a girl entering Radcliffe from a high school in Mercer County. Miss Burns, a senior at Trenton Central High School, was accepted by Radcliffe last December under the Early Admission Plan.

Other entertainments planned for the Midway include Paul and Mary Ritts, include: Shanel the Skunk, Sir Geoffrey Giraffe and their colleagues, who will appear in two shows and will also venture out into the audience to chat with fans after each performance; an exhibition of trained dogs by Mr. and Mrs. Francis M. Austin, Jr. and South African safari movies shown by Mr. and Mrs. David Johnson.

Midway tents will shelter a group of booths, planned by Mrs. Robert Sullivan and Mrs. Alexander Edwards, co-chairmen of Children's Entertainment.

TEACHERS APPOINTED

To Borough Schools. Appointments of five new teachers and a guidance counselor to serve in Princeton Borough Schools for the 1961-62 school year were approved at Tuesday's meeting of the Borough Board of Education. The guidance counselor is Mrs. Ruth Lutz, who will fill a newly-created position at Witherspoon School.

Three of the new teachers will go to Princeton High School. They are: Richard Wolfe, mathematics; Donald G. Brown, German, and Thomas R. Murray, physical education. Mr. Murray is transferring to the high school from Princeton Township's Valley Road School. The other two new teachers are David Anderton, mathematics; Witherspoon School, and Mrs. Judith A. Fedden, second grade, Nassau Street School.

In other action, the school board voted to award diplomas to two American Field Service students who are seniors this year at Princeton High School. In the past, AFS students have been given certificates of merit, and the change this year was based on the outstanding record of the two students. They are Miss Eldrid Kavemen of Norway and Miss Ute Falkenthal of Germany.

held last month. The total take was $727.73 and the P.T.A.'s commission was $155.53, a sum which will be used for various P.T.A. projects.

The most popular books were the fantasies of Dr. Suess, science books for boys, and horse and dog stories for girls.

FIRST GIFTS RECEIVED

By Princeton Day Schools. The Princeton Day Schools' Joint Development Program has received its first two gifts of $100,000, it has been announced by Frank E. Taplin, chairman. The program, currently in the advanced gifts stage, seeks $3 million for construction of the new buildings for Miss Fine's School and Princeton Country Day School. The new buildings are to be erected on the Great Road site given by Mr and Mrs. Dean Mathey.

One of the $100,000 donations is an unrestricted gift from Mr. and Mrs. John A Andresen of Brookstone Drive. The other is an anonymous gift, of which $75,000 is to be used to construct the new school's library, which will be used jointly by Miss Fine's and PCD students.

The library will be located on the lower level of the projected main building of the new Princeton Day Schools. It will be in the central portion bridging the two wings, and the main room will be flanked by two study halls, one for boys and one for girls. The rear of the library will be a wall of windows looking out into the meadows over a terrace.

Containing approximately 2,400 square feet, the library will have adequate storage space for magazines and audio-visual materials as well as regular book shelving. It is especially designed to provide facilities for individual research which students should undertake as they progress toward college.

Mr. Taplin reported that the whole campaign organization, which consists almost entirely of Princeton residents, was "enormously encouraged by these two fine gifts." The library, he said, "is in some respects the very heart of the Princeton Day Schools' program for pre-college education, and it is gratifying to have it donated. On the other hand, Mr. and Mrs. Andresen's splendid gift is unrestricted as to purpose, which will allow us to use it where it is most needed."

"Friends" To Name Officers. National and area officers of the new "Friends of Princeton Seminary" will be elected at the group's first annual meeting, to be held Saturday on the seminary campus. The group was organized in January for the purpose of interpreting the needs of theological education to the general public.

The meeting will open with registration and a coffee hour at 10 a.m., followed by a worship service in Miller Chapel at 11 and a panel discussion at 11:15 on "The Seminary in the World." The business session will be held after luncheon, and a garden tea at "Springdale," the residence of President and Mrs. James I. McCord, will conclude the program.

A special feature of the meeting will be an exhibition of paintings of children of United Nations diplomatic personnel by Mrs. Margaret Taylor, which will be on view in the seminary's Speer Library. Mrs. Taylor is the granddaughter of James C. Moffet, professor of church history at the seminary from 1861 to 1888.

TIGERS TRIUMPH

In Lacrosse and Tennis. Victory over Cornell on the last day of the spring season brought league titles to Princeton teams in both lacrosse and tennis. Joining the golf team in the championship bracket, they combined to give Princeton its most successful spring season in a decade.

With only five baseball games, the IC4-A track meet and the Intercollegiate Bowling Regatta at Syracuse remaining on the schedule, these were the highlights of weekend sports action:

Lacrosse. After a 3-all first period at Ithaca, Princeton pulled steadily away from last-place Cornell, 11 was 5-4 at the half and a 9-6 final to give Ferris Thomsen's Orange and Black entry its fifth straight Ivy title.

Tennis. No opponent came within three matches of defeating John Conray's unusually strong tennis team this year. Cornell, the eighth straight victim in Eastern Association action, fell by the identical 8-1 score the Tigers had run up against Harvard and Yale.

It was 15-0 overall for Princeton, with numerous shutouts recorded along the way.

Golf. Harry Kinnell's Eastern champions topped Penn, 4-3, in a surprising squeaker and Navy, 5-2, on the Springdale course last week to round out one of the best seasons in the history of the sport at Princeton.

A season's record of 12-0 went into the books. Paced by the 1.000 percent marks credited to golf and tennis, Princeton varsity teams are currently over the .600 figure in won-lost percentages, unusually high for that level of play.

Baseball. The high-flying balloon on which the Tigers were riding after successive victories over good Yale, Navy and Rutgers teams was punctured Saturday with a loud bang. The detonation was caused by Pennsylvania, a ninth-place team in the Eastern League, which rolled over Princeton, 10 to 4.

Wally Phillips' string of successes on the mound came to an abrupt end, partially through his own lack of control and abetted by his teammates' poor fielding. The losers stranded a near-record total of 16 runners to remove all teeth from their attack.

Day before, a Rutgers outfit which finished the season with 15 victories and a tie in 2 contests was trimmed, 4 to 2. Lee Hegner was the winner as the strength of a four-run seventh; Bill MacMillan's base-clearing 390-foot double off the left field fence was the big blow.

Crew. Failing to qualify in its heat, when it finished fifth (behind Cornell, Yale, Syracuse, Harvard, ahead only of Dartmouth), the varsity crew was shut out of the finals of the Eastern spring championships at Worcester.

The Tiger jayvees and freshmen qualified, finishing fifth and fourth, respectively. Best Princeton showing of the day was credited to the jayvee lightweights, who chased victorious Navy across the line.

Track. Hopes for the first track victory in 13 years over Cornell failed to materialize at Ithaca as the Red won, 75-65. Dick Edmunds won the 220 and 440 as expected and anchored the victorious mile relay team (3:17.1), while Russ Tornrose added a double with triumphs in the shot and discus.

SEASON TO END

For PHS Baseball Team. Three games in the next five days will complete the spring season for the Princeton High School baseball team. The Blue and White entertains Trenton High Thursday and Somerville Friday before meeting Hamilton High away Monday afternoon.

The Little Tigers earned a split last week, absorbing an 8-0 whitewash from Steinert before coming from behind to hand Ewing a 5-4 loss. A bases-loaded single by Ray Britton and Allen Wood's fourth hit of the day made Bob Chibbaro the winning pitcher in relief of John Rogerson.

PHS HEADS FOR ASBURY

Central Jersey Meet on Tap. Hopes of a high finish in the Central Jersey Group III Championships were being entertained by Coach Win Niles and the Princeton High School track team as the annual event at Asbury Park Saturday drew near.

The return of injured personnel, particularly hurdler Lamont Fletcher, will aid the Little Tigers' chances. Bound Brook and North Plainfield figure to provide the toughest opposition.

The Blue and White divide... wa meets last week, losing 70 to 47, to Trenton High after edging Somerville, 59½ - 57½. THS took every flat race with Fletcher winning the low hurdles to prevent the losers from being shutout on the track. Joe Beachell won the javelin, with Howard Gould again taking both the shot and the discus.

tories over Pingry and Admiral Farragut for the Hun School basebell team, credited to Frank Black, lest week raised the pitching ace's record to 5 and 0 for the season. He turned back Pingry, 5-1, going the distance against the Elizabeth nine before coming on in relief two days later to stop Admiral Farragut, 9-7, at Toms River.

A bases-loaded double by Gary Grover capped a five run outburst by Hun in the fourth inning, bringing the Red and Black even at 7-all. The victory over Admiral Farragut was particularly welcome since it held a triumph over Delbarton, only team to top Hun this season.

A midweek contest with Solebury was scheduled to complete Hun's regular season, one of the best it has had in the sport in many years. Coach Squier Ball was making tentative plans to put his team into a post-season tournament in northern New Jersey.

After covering a major portion of the municipality, the parade will end at the Little League field for a program of baseball and entertainment. At the half-way mark in the season, three teams—C. Page Oilers, American Cyanamid and The First National Bank—are tied for first place with identical 4-1 marks.

LARRIES BOW OUT

In Three Sports. Lawrenceville's baseball, track and lacrosse teams will conclude their seasons this Saturday. Peddie School and the Scarsdale Lacrosse Club will provide the opposition for home baseball and lacrosse contests, respectively.

The track team will travel to Hightstown for the championships of New Jersey Interscholastic Athletic Association. Both home games will begin at 2:30.

The baseball team scored its tenth consecutive victory without a loss last Wednesday, squeezing past Peddie, 1-0. Chuck Miller yielded only two hits while striking out ten for the Larries. Peddie's Charles Witte also threw a two-hitter and fanned five. The winning run came across in the fifth inning when Frank Bunch walked, stole second and scored on an error.

The golf team downed Choate School last Wednesday, 6-1, to register its eighth victory in ten matches. The tennis team ran its record to 5-3 with a victory over George School. The score was 5-1. Both golf and tennis teams were scheduled to compete in state tournaments this week.

IVY INN ON TOP

After Beating Kings Inn. A 5-4 victory behind Lou DeMeglio kept Ivy Inn unbeaten in the Sportsmen's Softball League, the victory coming at the expense of previously-unbeaten Kings Inn. The winning hurler pitched one-hit ball until the seventh, when the losers rallied for three runs but the surge fell one tally short.

In Tuesday evening's other game, the Sportsmen walloped Hinkson's, 10 to 1, on the wings of a five-run first. Ralph Procaccino was the winning pitcher.

Last week, Kings Inn repeated an earlier victory over the Sportsmen with a 7-2 decision, overcoming an early 1-0 deficit as Russ Watson picked up another triumph. Same evening, Ivy Inn blanked Hinkson's, 6-0, with DeMeglio spinning a two-hitter.
